

ASSG AWARDS 2019

RECOGNISING EXCELLENCE IN SOUND FOR THE SCREEN
2019 AWARDS PROGRAMME

The Annual Australian Screen Sound Guild Awards
are proudly supported by our Major National Sponsor AFTRS

From the President's desk...

Over the past few months I have been involved in judging sound for various awards, and this year I have been very impressed with the high standard of sound work being done in our industry. Whereas once this might only have been true of a handful of productions, now it is across the board, no matter the size of the project, the format or the release platform.

Our Awards provide the moment at which we celebrate this great work. We no longer have to look elsewhere to judge the standards of what we do. Be assured that those nominated today are in the best company, and those who win have done so against truly serious competition.

This year has seen a continued increase in our membership, which I believe is a sign that the sound community is growing in confidence about itself. This increase in numbers brings many challenges. Many of the new members are people at the very beginning of their careers. Those of us who have had the privilege of working in sound for many years need to take responsibility for the greater community. I encourage you, today, if you see a new face, to introduce yourself, to get to know those who share many of the same concerns you do, no matter how many years experience each may have.

A particular challenge facing many of us in the industry is that of mental health. This year the Guild has supported a number of events aimed at raising awareness and providing tools for facing this problem, wherever it may arise. Elsewhere in this booklet you'll find more detail about these events, and some of the support services available. Please take a moment to read this.

Each year I take this chance to thank the committee and the awards sub-committee for all the work they do throughout the year. This event and all else we do would not be possible without them. It is worth noting that many on the committee are nominated today, or have nominations in the upcoming AACTA awards. This is testament to their expertise, but also a reminder that they are all busy people, working at the highest level, who somehow find time to contribute above and beyond what anybody could reasonably expect of them.

Thanks must also go to our judges – again, highly skilled people who give up many hours to ensure that these Awards mean something, that we truly recognise the best work. And as I have observed, that is a particularly difficult task this year.

In part due to the excellent work of committee members, we have a number of new sponsors this year. Our sponsors make today possible, so whether you have just come on board, or have supported as year after year, I offer my heartfelt thanks for what you do for our Guild and our members.

Whether you meet new people today, catch up with old friends, thank our sponsors or take a moment to talk with those of our Lifetime Achievement Award winners who are here, remember that you are all part of a very special community.

In 2019 the ASSG has made an effort to acknowledge the importance of health and wellbeing for those who work in the creative and entertainment industry.

In Sydney and Melbourne we were able to co-host a two-hour seminar about the signs and symptoms of common mental health issues in our industry.

The ASSG have promoted screenings of The Show Must Go On in Sydney and Adelaide, as part of the Wellness Roadshow.

In 2020 we hope to further support our members with events and talks to help manage our mental and physical health. We would like to do our small part in forging a cultural change in the industry.
